

The Meter Setter

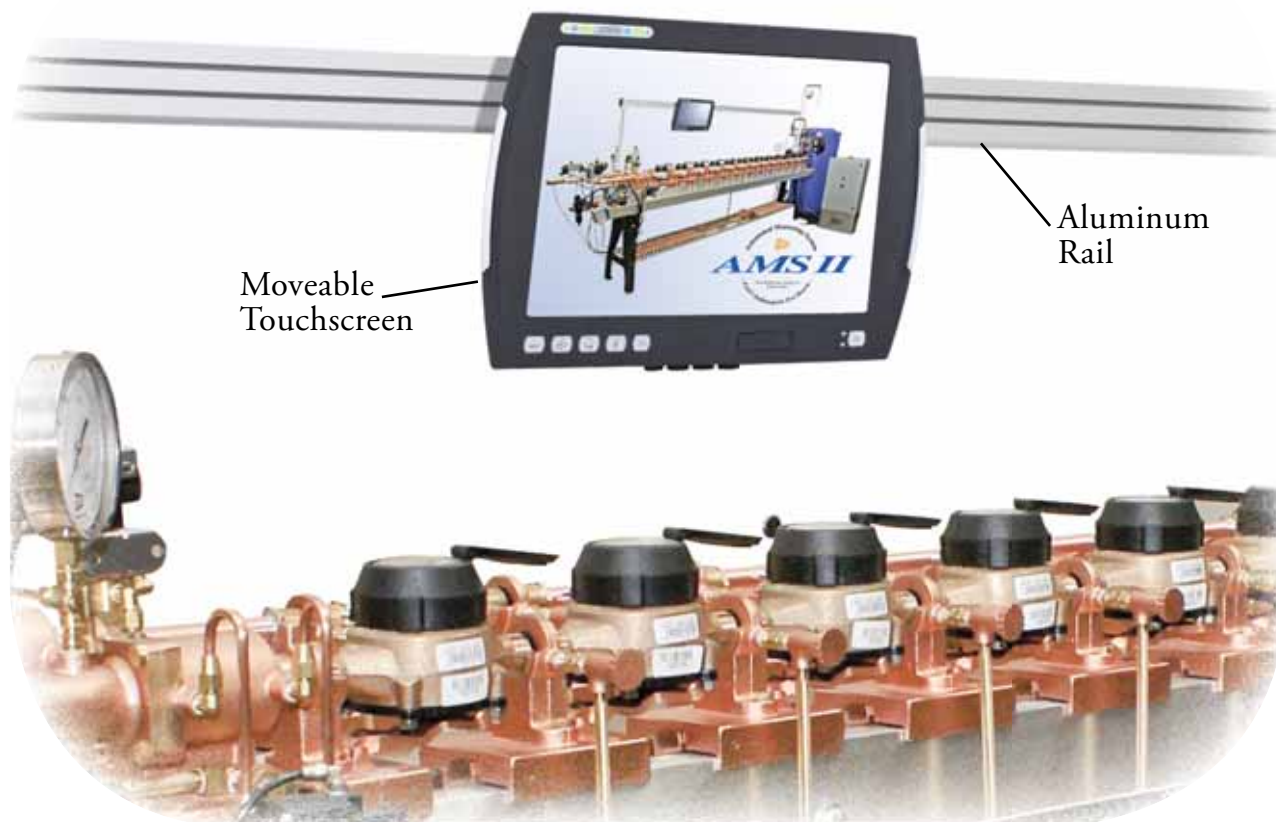

AMS II Water Meter Test Bench

The Ford Meter Box Company introduces our second generation Automated Measuring System (AMS) Test Bench. Whether installing with a new test bench or applying the AMS to an existing bench using a retro-fit kit, the AMS Test Bench is the most advanced Meter Testing Bench available.

In addition to automating the manual tasks of securing meters and purging air from the system, the upgraded computer allows for a greater range of flow options while testing meters. During tests, the AMS monitors the flow of water and automatically halts the system when the test is complete or the tank is full. For longer, multi-station benches, the touchscreen computer slides along an aluminum rail allowing easy data entry of the meter readings. When testing is complete, the open source OPC server allows electronic data downloads from the bench for customized output of reports.
