Ford Product Training

Ford Meter Box supports training for water professionals. On a regular basis, Ford offers training classes and presentations for cities, contractors, distributors, AWWA sections, Rural Water groups and other water-related associations. Ford Meter Box conducts product training classes and factory tours at its Wabash, Indiana, and Pell City, Alabama, locations.

In factory training classes, attendees are given the opportunity to learn about a product and see firsthand how it is manufactured and tested. Each class is conducted in a comfortable training room by Ford staff who can answer questions about products in the field or the manufacturing process. Classes also include sessions in our Product Assurance Labs for hands-on demonstrations and instructions on proper product installation.

While visiting a Ford facility, attendees will experience small town hospitality hosted by a variety of Ford personnel. Factory training classes offer the opportunity for personal interaction, giving Ford employees and customers a chance to learn from each other.

In addition to factory training sessions, Ford Meter Box offers personalized local training for customers and water associations. These presentations are tailored to address specific products or concerns.

If you are interested in a training program in your local area, or if you would like to attend a training session in Wabash or Pell City, please contact your Ford sales representative or customer service manager.
