

It may look like an ordinary ball valve.

Until you see what's behind it.

All our brass products may look ordinary. But not when you see what's behind them - hundreds of people working to ensure that each part meets our high standards. Not only physical reliability standards, but also those that set Ford apart - our quality, delivery, experience and service.

QUALITY

We make brass products you can count on. In fact, we test each and every one of them for durability, craftsmanship and quality. Every one. And with our ISO 9001 rating, you know our manufacturing practices have been put to the test as well. We do all this because we understand how important quality and reliability are to you. We make sure our products withstand the pressure, even when others fail.

DELIVERY

Working with Ford is easy. With over 1800 stock items and a strong distributor system, you get the part you need. Our large inventory means we have almost anything available for same day delivery. But if you do need something we don't have, we'll get it to you quickly because we meet the commitments we make. Once you call us, consider the job done.

FORD EXTRAS

When you work with Ford you get extras that also set us apart, such as outstanding service and unparalleled experience. Our customer service representatives have made long careers out of helping customers like you. They not only get to know you, but your terrain as well. They're assigned specific geographic regions. They know the climate, soil conditions and concerns of your area. If you have a question, you can be sure they know the answer. Our sales staff is one of the largest in the industry so we're available when you need us. And with their experience and knowledge, you always get the right product for the job and all the information necessary to install it.

We put so much behind our brass products so you can trust the name on the front of them. Ford Meter Box. Reliable and durable brass products. Contact your Ford Meter Box representative for more information.
